UNIVERSITY OF REGINA CALENDAR DESCRIPTION

This course examines the principles, concepts and skills related to social work with individuals, families, and groups, providing a theoretical framework for generalist social work practice. Note: SW 346 must be taken prior to or concurrently with SW 347. For Yukon SW programs, SW 346 is a prerequisite for SW 347.

ADDITIONAL COURSE DESCRIPTION

SW 346 is a required course for all students in the BSW program. It is a prerequisite course for SW 347 (Practice II) and for SW 348 and SW 448 (Social Work Practicum I & II).

PREREQUISITES

SW 200, SW 390 or permission of instructor.

RELATED COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Students must achieve an overall 70% GPA in SW 390 and 346 (and a 70% GPA for all social work courses) to enter SW 348. A 70% overall average in SW 390, 346, 347 (and a 70% GPA for all social work courses) is required for entering SW 448.

EQUIVALENCY OR TRANSFERABILITY

For information about the transferability of this course, please contact the Bachelor of Social Work office.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

Upon successful completion of the course, students will be able to:

1. Explain a generalist approach to social work practice and compare it with other major theories of social work intervention (e.g. structural, feminist, ecosystems, strengths, solution-focused, etc.).
2. Articulate the CASW Code of Ethics and apply it in a variety of social work settings.
3. Think critically and with self-awareness about one's values, and the nature of intervention, self-determination and empowerment.
4. Apply social work practice theory to diverse populations relevant to the province/territory [e.g. First Nations, rural, immigrant, children, youth, women, seniors, unemployed, those with health issues or disabilities, etc.].
5. Describe the components and principles of intervention with an individual or family (e.g. engagement, assessment, planning, intervention, evaluation, termination).
6. Complete an assessment and case plan for an individual.

COURSE FORMAT

This course will be conducted through lectures, large group and small group discussions/activities, student presentations, guest lecturers and audio-visual displays. Students take an active role in seminars in terms of preparing material to share with colleagues each class.

ASSESSMENTS

Attendance & Participation

Attendance and participation is an expectation of all students preparing themselves for the responsibilities of professional social work practice. Courtesy to others, curiosity about the subject and diligence to the task of learning are all required for a student's success in this course. Readings and assignments are to be completed on schedule, punctuality for class is required, and full engagement in experiential learning within class time is mandatory.

“Regular and punctual attendance is expected of students in their courses. Students who are persistently tardy or absent or who neglect academic work may be subject to disciplinary action and may be excluded from the final examination” (University of Regina, 1996-97, p. 19).

Students who miss more than 2 classes will have 5% of their final grade deducted for each additional class missed or portion thereof. If a student misses more than two classes, they may choose to speak with the instructor and ask for an additional assignment to complete in lieu of this missed class, thereby avoiding a deduction in their term grade. The instructor has discretion over a) whether to grant this option to the student and b) the content and format of the assignment. Without exception this additional assignment must be completed satisfactorily prior to the end of term.

Readings

Students are expected to attend classes prepared to discuss assigned readings. Most class sessions involve assigned readings from the textbooks and/or handouts. Additional material may also be assigned.

Assignments

Refer to the Assignment Description document for the details on these assignments.

Assignment #1	Code of Ethics	Due: Week #5, October 9	25%
Assignment #2	Assessment	Due: Week #9, November 6	30%
Assignment #3	Planning	Due: Week #13, December 4	30%
Final Exam	(During regularly scheduled Exam time. TBA)		15%

Writing Expectations, Due Dates and Penalties

- Competence in writing is expected in courses. Wherever possible, instructors are expected to conduct their courses in such a way as to obtain evidence of student writing skills, in term papers, essays, reports, or other written work, and to demand competence in writing for a passing grade. (U. Regina Calendar)

- Write assignments using appropriate language. Check grammar and spelling.
- Academic references from professional journals, books, etc. are required for all assignments.
- APA format is to be used for all assignments.
- Assignments are due in class on the date assigned. Assignments handed in after this time must have the date/time of submission noted by an Applied Arts administration assistant. An assignment handed in after 4:00 P.M. of the due date is "late" and penalties will apply. 5% will be deducted for every day late up to a maximum of 5 late days, after which time the assignment will not be accepted.
- The instructor is under no obligation to provide you opportunities to re-do your work after it has been submitted for marking. Rewriting provides an extra burden of work for the instructor and an uneven and potentially unfair evaluation process. If the instructor permits a rewrite, the maximum mark that can be achieved will be 70% for the assignment.

EVALUATION

Assignments	85%
Midterm Exam	N/A
Participation and Attendance	See policy
Final Exam	15%
Total	100%

ACADEMIC AND STUDENT CONDUCT (UNIVERSITY OF REGINA CALENDAR)

5.14.2 Academic Misconduct

Acts of academic dishonesty or misconduct contravene the general principles described in §5.14.1. In this section, some of these acts are described. Others which are not explicitly described here may also be considered academic misconduct. All forms of academic misconduct are considered serious offences within the University community. For the penalties, see §5.14.5.

5.14.2.1 Cheating

Cheating is dishonest behaviour (or the attempt to behave dishonestly), usually in tests or examinations. It includes:

- unless explicitly authorized by the course instructor or examiner, using books, notes, diagrams, electronic devices, or any other aids during an examination, either in the examination room itself or when permitted to leave temporarily;
- copying from the work of other students;
- communicating with others during an examination to give or receive information, either in the examination room or outside it;

- consulting others on a take-home examination (unless authorized by the course instructor);
- commissioning or allowing another person to write an examination on one's behalf;
- not following the rules of an examination;
- using for personal advantage, or communicating to other students, advance knowledge of the content of an examination (for example, if permitted to write an examination early);
- altering answers on an assignment or examination that has been returned;
- taking an examination out of the examination room if this has been forbidden.

5.14.2.2 Plagiarism

Plagiarism is a form of academic dishonesty in which one person submits or presents the work of another person as his or her own, whether from intent to deceive, lack of understanding, or carelessness. Unless the course instructor states otherwise, it is allowable and expected that students will examine and refer to the ideas of others, but these ideas must be incorporated into the student's own analysis and must be clearly acknowledged through footnotes, endnotes, or other practices accepted by the academic community. Students' use of others' expression of ideas, whether quoted verbatim or paraphrased, must also be clearly acknowledged according to acceptable academic practice. It is the responsibility of each student to learn what constitutes acceptable academic practice. The Department of English Style Guide is available inexpensively from the University Bookstore. Students may also consult online resources such as the University of Toronto Writing Centre's "How Not to Plagiarize": www.utoronto.ca/writing/plagsep.html.

Plagiarism includes the following practices:

- not acknowledging an author or other source for one or more phrases, sentences, thoughts, code, formulae, or arguments incorporated in written work, software, or other assignments (substantial plagiarism);
- presenting the whole or substantial portions of another person's paper, report, piece of software, etc. as an assignment for credit, even if that paper or other work is cited as a source in the accompanying bibliography or list of references (complete plagiarism). This includes essays found on the Internet.

Students who are uncertain what plagiarism is should discuss their methodology with their instructors.

5.14.2.3 Other Examples of Academic Misconduct

The following list contains other examples of dishonest acts. It is not intended to be comprehensive.

- Falsifying lab results;
- Padding a bibliography with works not read or used;
- Helping another student in an act of academic dishonesty; for example, writing a test or paper for someone else, or preparing materials for another student's studio project;
- Providing false or incomplete information or supporting documents/materials on an application for admission, re-admission, or transfer (see also §2.1.2);
- Providing false information to obtain a deferral of term work or examination;
- Altering or falsifying, or attempting to alter or falsify, grade information or other records of academic performance (one's own or someone else's);
- Obtaining or attempting to obtain an academic advantage by non-academic means such as bribes or threats;
- Hindering other students in obtaining fair access to University materials and facilities; for example, cutting an article out of a Library copy of a journal;
- Theft of another student's notes;
- Alteration or destruction of the work of other students;
- Behaviour that interferes with the evaluation of another student's work, such as failure to participate in a group project.

The two acts listed below may be considered to be academic misconduct unless authorized by the course instructor.

- Submitting the same or substantially the same work for credit in more than one course. Students who wish to submit work they have prepared for another course must consult the course instructor and receive permission to do so.
- Working jointly, with another student or group of students, on an assignment that is to be graded. If no explicit instructions are given by the instructor about group work, students who wish to work together must request the instructor's permission in advance.

ACADEMIC AND STUDENT CONDUCT (YUKON COLLEGE)

Information on academic standing and student rights and responsibilities can be found in the current Academic Regulations that are posted on the Student Services/ Admissions & Registration web page.

SOCIAL WORK STUDENT CONDUCT

As future social workers, students must subscribe to a set of social work values and ethics, which include equality, justice, non-discrimination, advocacy, confidentiality, discretion, trust and utmost good faith (from Faculty of Social Work, University of Regina). Social workers are expected to behave in courteous, mature and respectful ways towards others. This is also the expectation of social work students. Appropriate behaviour is required between students in the classroom, with the instructor and at any time when students are approaching others in relation to projects originating from this class.

Part of professional conduct involves being punctual, prepared and self aware. Being present in class, prepared for class (by completing the readings and assignments on the dates due) and fully participating in class activities is expected.

More information on expectations of student academic and non-academic conduct is found in the University of Regina Undergraduate Calendar (5.14) and the University of Regina Faculty of Social Work website (Policy and Procedures Related to Unsatisfactory Professional Development).

PLAGIARISM

Plagiarism is a serious academic offence. Plagiarism occurs when a student submits work for credit that includes the words, ideas, or data of others, without citing the source from which the material is taken. Plagiarism can be the deliberate use of a whole piece of work, but more frequently it occurs when students fail to acknowledge and document sources from which they have taken material according to an accepted manuscript style (e.g., APA, CSE, MLA, etc.). Students may use sources which are public domain or licensed under Creative Commons; however, academic documentation standards must still be followed. Except with explicit permission of the instructor, resubmitting work which has previously received credit is also considered plagiarism. Students who plagiarize material for assignments will receive a mark of zero (F) on the assignment and may fail the course. Plagiarism may also result in dismissal from a program of study or the College.

YUKON FIRST NATIONS CORE COMPETENCY

Yukon College recognizes that a greater understanding and awareness of Yukon First Nations history, culture and journey towards self-determination will help to build positive relationships among all Yukon citizens. As a result, to graduate from ANY Yukon College program, you will be required to achieve core competency in knowledge of Yukon First Nations. For details, please see www.yukoncollege.yk.ca/yfnccr.

ACADEMIC ACCOMMODATION

Reasonable accommodations are available for students requiring an academic accommodation to fully participate in this class. These accommodations are available for students with a documented disability, chronic condition or any other grounds specified in section 8.0 of the Yukon College Academic Regulations (available on the Yukon College website). It is the student's responsibility to seek these accommodations. If a student requires an academic accommodation, he/she should contact the Learning Assistance Centre (LAC): lac@yukoncollege.yk.ca.
